

1-Characterization According to Wikipedia Encyclopedia, it is?

a-the art of creating characters for a narrative.

b-The lives of people in this world

c-Its nothing

d-All the answers is wrong

2-Characterization is ?

a- Do not have a definition

b-"the process" of conveying information about characters in fiction. Characters are usually presented through their actions and thought

c- standing a ginst the protagonist and challenge him

d- most of the events in the novel revolves around this character.

3-Wich narrator is free to judge and comment on characters ?

a-first person narrator

b-omniscient narrator

c-third person narrator

d-opjective narrator

4-wich narrator leaves his characters face their fates ?

a-first person narrator

b-omniscient narrator

c-opjective narrator

d-third person narrator

5-What is the rule of the antagonist in the novel?

a- The main character who faces conflicts in the novel.

b- he changes after facing difficult situations

c- This character doesn't change.

d-he standing a ginst the protagonist and challenge him

6- Tell me another name of flat character?

a- statik and secandry character

b- Denamk

c- Major character

d- all the above

7-What is the meaning of flat character?

a-constructed around a "single idea or quality ". This character is easily noticed b-complicated. He has different attitudes towards life.

c- character that has not a great part in the novel

d-most of the events in the novel revolves around this character.

8-What is the meaning of a round character?

a-constructed around a "single idea or quality ". This character is easily noticed

b-complicated. He has different attitudes towards life.

c- character that has not a great part in the novel

d-most of the events in the novel revolves around this character.

9-What is the meaning of a Minor character (secondary) ?

a-constructed around a "single idea or quality ". This character is easily noticed

b-complicated. He has different attitudes towards life.

c- character that has not a great part in the novel

d-most of the events in the novel revolves around this character.

10-What is the meaning of a Major character (central) ?

a-constructed around a "single idea or quality ". This character is easily noticed

b-complicated. He has different attitudes towards life.

c- character that has not a great part in the novel

d-most of the events in the novel revolves around this character.

11-What is the defferance between the flat character and around character?

a-The(flat) single idea and the (around) different idea

b-The(flat) one quality and the (around) many quality

c-All of the above(a+b) d-There is no difference

12-Characterization can take into consideration a variety of aspects of a character, such as:

a-appearance, age, gender,

b-educational level, vocation or occupation

c-financial status, marital status, social status

d-cultural background, hobbies, religious beliefs, ambitions, motivations,etc.

e- All of the above is true

13-why the Characters are considered as the most important element of the novel?

a-Characters have great effects on other elements

b-Characters also help in revealing the messages behind the novel.

c-They interact with the readers in many different ways

d- All of the above is true

14-Boulton says in his book, the Anatomy of the Novel (1975) that ?

a-"character in a novel is not puzzling as character in real life"

b-Character in the novel is not important

c-character in a novel is soo puzzling

d-nothing true

15-According to Lan Watt, Two aspects have especial importance in the novel ?

a-STORY and book cover

b-Characterization and Presentation of background

c-Writer and audience

d-Time and place

