Reading comprehension :

A) Ramen and the noodles :

1) Ramen noodles might be best known in the U.S. as a cheap staple for college students, but the history of the noodles-and-broth dish pre-dates the instant grocery store version. Countless variations of ramen noodles exist in Japan--many served in restaurants, where the wheat-flour noodles are made fresh and served with a variety of broths and toppings. The inexpensive meal in a bowl is the national dish of Japan.

2) Each bowl of ramen essentially a large, deep bowl of noodle soup---includes a hefty portion of chewy noodles, broth made usually from soy sauce but sometimes with miso or pork stock, and toppings such as egg, fish cake, mushrooms, scallion, ginger, pork, sprouts or other meat or vegetables.

Ramen is eaten noodles first (slurping is polite in Japan; biting a noodle is unlucky). Then people eat the broth with a large, flat-bottomed spoon. Some people add pepper flakes or hot sauce to the bowl while eating.

3) Most histories trace the origins of ramen noodles to China. The Japanese adopted the dish in the 19th century and started calling it "ramen," a version of the Chinese word for the noodles. Ramen noodles were time-consuming to make, expensive and something of a delicacy until the mid-20th century.

4) Because of its relatively cheap ingredients, ramen became a popular staple in post-WWII Japan. Eventually, it was voted the country's national dish. Ramenyas, or noodle houses, sprouted throughout Japanese cities, and the style of broth or type of toppings varied among region. Ramen is also sold from street carts, in chain restaurants and even vending machines.

5) In 1958, the owner of Japanese company Nissin Foods, Momofuku Ando, decided to produce instant noodles made by deep-frying ramen noodles. With the distinctive block of curly noodles and a flavor packet (shrimp, chicken, beef, etc.), instant ramen makes a salty but filling meal or snack. Noodles and a flavor packet are sold in cups or bowls, and are inexpensive when bought on sale or by the case. Nissin's Top Ramen often costs less than 20 cents a packet. Add boiling water to the noodles to soften them, stir in the flavor packet, let the whole thing sit for a minute or two, then eat.

Instant ramen's popularity has grown beyond Japan and the U.S.; in southeast Asia and the Middle East, ramen comes in flavors like marsala, curry, cheese and tom yam.

6) In the early 2000s, ramenyas, or traditional Japanese ramen restaurants, became popular in New York, Los Angeles, and European cities.

Numerous websites and fan groups are dedicated to ramen noodles; in Japan, you can buy guidebooks to thousands of ramen restaurants. Yokohama, Japan, has a ramen museum, and Ikeda City is home to Momofuku Ando Instant Ramen Museum. A restaurant in Tokyo serves ramen made by a robot.

In New York, the popular East Village restaurant Momofuku began as a noodle shop, and won much praise and large crowds, inspiring other restaurants to open in the neighborhood

B) Type A and B Personality :

1) Studying the human behavior is the sole purpose of psychology. To study the human behavior, is one of the most difficult tasks, as it is not constant and keeps on changing. So a number of theories have been created in psychology, to understand it. One of these theories is the type A and type B personality theory. Every individual is different and type A and B personality theory is based on this principal. In this theory, some major differences between two individuals are studied. Type A and type B personality characteristics are contradictory to each other. This theory studies not only the differences between the individuals but also the basic human behavior. There are type C and type D personalities also. Following paragraphs give the descriptions of type A and B personality types.

2) These personality tests aren't new and are being studied for the last fifty years. Some very prominent characteristics are seen in type A people and that is the reason why they are so easily identified. If you see someone freaking out because they are made to wait, even if the wait is for just couple of minutes, you have most probably encountered a type A person! People having a type A personality, are always in a hurry and impatience seems to be their middle name! Time urgency is seen clearly in their personality. They speak fast, they walk fast and are constantly aware of the running time.

3) Another peculiar type A personality trait is that they cannot tolerate slow speaking people and they usually end up completing sentences for them! Other special characteristics of type A personality people are that they get upset over small things easily and are also short tempered. When they get really angry, they can be very rude! So it is better not to provoke these 'stress junkies'! They are rightly called 'stress junkies' for they get stressed out easily. They have high ambitions and they can overcome competition to achieve their goal. They also tend to compete with other people.

4) Type A people are said to have greater chances of suffering from hypertension and heart diseases. This is obviously because of their 'stress junkie' nature. So type A personalities need to calm down and stop being workaholics! Meditation and breathing exercises prove to be helpful for this personality type. This was about type A personality description. Now let's take a look at type B personality.

5) Type B Personality

There are some major differences between type A and B personality. The biggest difference is that type B personality people are always chilled out! They are mostly calm and composed, and in contrast to type A personalities, type B people are never in a hurry! They are the ones who will start talking when they are standing in a line, and by the time their turn comes, they will have made friends! Type B personality people are also quite reflective. They will always be thinking about others' problems and always lend a helping hand. They are equally hardworking as type A personalities, but they do not mind losing. So you won't have competition from a type B in office! They also do not get stressed easily and if ever they become stressed they usually become more productive. This is one of the biggest difference between type A and B personality. Type A tends to get destructive while type B tend to get productive.

6) Because of their happy-go-lucky nature, type B personalities do not face much of health problems. Speaking about sports, type A and type B personality in sports are quite different from each other as their unique qualities reflect in their game also. Type A are perfectionists so they always aim to win and can also be dominating. On the other hand, type B personalities are relaxed and they play for entertainment rather than for winning. Read more on type A personality vs type B personality.

7) This was about type A and B personality. If you are still confused about which personality you are, you can take up type A and type B personality test and find out. Whether you are personality type A, B or C, it doesn't matter, as everyone has a unique personality and each one of us should maintain it!
