By the end of the next lecture you will be expected to write a descriptive composition about "Learning a Language".

في اخر المحاضره راح يطلب منك ان تكتب انشاء عن تعلم اللغه

بعدين حاط صور تفكر في الناس بالصوره وايش اعمالهم مو مهم مانزلتها الصور والمقدمات الى ببداية كل فصل مارام احطها ماراح تفيد تاخذ مكان ع الفاضى

1. Why might these people need to speak more than one language?

They should learn another language because they are most likely to meet people who speak a language other than their own.

1- ليش الناس تحتاج التحدث باكثر من لغه ؟

ينبغي عليهم تعلم لغه اخرى لانه من المتوقع يلتقي الناس الذين يتحدثون بلغات اخرى غير لغات بلدانهم

2. What are some reasons to learn a second language?

A couple of reasons I think are importantare to communicate with more people, and get to know and understand another culture

2-ماهي بعض الاسباب لتعلم لغه ثانيه؟

السبب المهم الذي اعتقده هو التواصل مع عدد كبير من الناس والتعرف وفهم الثقافات الاخرى

3. What are some ways to learn a second language?

One could learn a language on his or her own or he or she could ask someone to teach him or her. A proper way to learn a language though, is to take classes in a school or institute.

3- بعض الطرق لتعلم لغه ثانيه ؟

يمكن للمرء ان يتعلم اللغه على حضارته او يمكن إن تسال وتطلب من شخص لتتعلمها والطريقه المكن للمرء ان يتعلم الصحيحة هي ان تاخذها بمعهد او مدرسه

Don't Make It a Mount Everest

It is common to see and hear the foreign language every day in New York City: riding with Creole- speaking cabdrivers, reading menus written half in Chinese and half in Spaniard, or making purchases in Korean owned delicatessens.

Learning them, on the other hand, is another matter and it almost always costs money.

Finding a bargain in learning any language is rare, even though the Manhattan Yellow pages alone list some 70 foreign language schools.

Experts in the fields of foreign language teaching that say that if you want to become a polyglot, you should consider several things before you sign up for a language course:

Motive:

Why do you need to learn a foreign language? Being able to order a drink on the French island of Martinique is very different from doing business in Tokyo. Or, if all you want to know is how to find a telephone booth while walking near the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, a practical program in which you first learn to speak, and later to read and write, would do fine.

"In this age of global travel, it is increasingly likely that students have spent time or will spend time in the country of the language that they want to learn," said Anthony Niesz, associate director of the Yale University language Laboratory. This means of that knowing how to ask for a hotel room or for directions-and to understand the answer you receive---is more important than being able to read a newspaper like Le Monde, or even knowing the pluperfect tense. But if real proficiency is your goal--- from being able to conjugate verbs to reading Madame Bovary in France---a university or an institute may be the best place for you.

Method:

What's the best way to learn the language? Language teaching programs and methods vary.

One technique is called total immersion. With total immersion, students in the classroom speak, listen to, and read only the foreign language they are learning. And for some, total immersion is the closest thing to learning a language while living in the foreign country.

Since most programs emphasize dialogue in the classroom, class size crucial. If there are more than 15 students, individuals are likely to spend too much time silent, Mr. Niesz said. The experts, however, say smaller and more expensive classes are not necessarily better.

For serious students who don't have a lot of time, private tutoring may be best. But groups work well for most people because they provide the opportunity to participate in games, skits, and conversation.

Teacher:

What makes a good teacher? When you think consider a language class, you must, of course, consider the teacher. Learning a language from native speakers has its advantages, but " native speaker is no guarantee that a person will be a good teacher," Mr. Niesz said. He added, " By far the most important criterion is whether he or she is an enthusiastic teacher."

Phyllis Ziegler: the director of second- language programs for the New York schools' division of bilingual education, said that "the nonnative teacher may sometimes better understand the student's questions because he or she has also studied the target language."

So, before inquiring about the authenticity of the teacher's accent, ask about educational experiences and credentials. Fabio Girelli-

Carasi, the director of foreign languages at New York University's School of Continuing Education, said that "the tanningbooth approach to language doesn't work . "He added,

"just sitting there ten hours won't make you darker than five. "In other words, do your homework.

الحين نجي للمقال ونحدد الفقرات المطلوبه student essay:the benefits of online language learning

A In today's global environment, mowing a foreign language is increasingly important. Theability to speak a foreign language with clarity and fluency is invaluable for business, education, and when working, living, or traveling in another country. Most foreign languageteaching occurs in a classroom with an instructor, textbooks, and several students. In myopinion, however, one of the best ways to learn a foreign language is a self-study, onlinecourse

Taking time away from work or other responsibilities to attend language courses at An institution is difficult for many people. With a selfstudy, online course, students can take lessons at home or in the office whenever they want. All they need is a computer and an Internet children can study online at night. In addition, because the student doesn't have to drive anywhere, online learning saves mo

Words and phrases that connect ideas <<<< for example&in addition

- A benefit of online language learning is that it's individualized. Many on-line language Courseshave pretests that assess each student's level. Online language programs can also collect information about the student's learning style and need for studying the foreign language so that the material can be adapted to the student's actual situation. Ina classroom, there are many students, each with different proficiency levels, different learning styles and different needs for speaking a foreign language. Furthermore, because online material is not as static as it is in a textbook, it can beconstantly updated and refreshed. This makes the learning experience more interesting and relevantfor the student
- D Finally, with online learning, the learning takes place in a low-stress environmenta privatesetting with no one else around. This is very important because many studies have shown that stress and anxiety inhibit perception, performance, and retention of linguistic material.

 In a classroo with several other students, all at different levels and with different needs, students may feelinhibitedand fearful of making a mistake. They may be afraid to try making new sounds or expressing their thoughts in the new language. In addition, an atmosphere of competition that exists inmanyclassrooms can be deadly for some students. In fact, the fear of making mistakes or seemingfoolish or childlike in front of others inhibits many people from succeeding in foreign language course

Online learning solves all of these problems. Alone with a computer, a good online Languagecourse, and a microphone, many students can make tremendous progress without the fear of appearingfoolish in front of others

. E The benefits of online self-study courses are that they are low-cost, people can do them at any time, and they can do them alone in the privacy of their own home or office. This last benefit is especially important in that many people feel less inhibited about acquiring and practicing language skills when they are alone. In addition, class size at many institutions limits the opportunities for foreign language students to get adequate individual attention.

These are just a few of the reasons that an online course is agood way for many people to learn aforeign language

Annapurna : woman's Place مكان المراه / انابورنا

A It is clear that women mountain climbers have felt the urge to explore remoteregions andascend high peaks for many years. On Top of the WorldFive Women Explorers in Tibet describes fiveof the many women who explored the high Himalayas between 1850 to 1920. One of them, Isabella Byrd, had been sickly for most of her life in England, but she experimented a dramatic change as she traveled at high elevations in Kashmir. Unlike her experience in England, as a pioneer and traveler she laughed at fatigue, she was unafraid of danger, and she didn't worry about her next meal.
Another woman explorer of her time was Alexandra David-Neel from France.
Her journeys across the high Tibetan plateau from 1911 to 1944 have been characterized as the most remarkable ever made the by any explorer, man or woman, in Tibet. At the age of 55 she disguised herself as a Tibetan beggar woman and walked two thousand miles across numerous high

- C Fanny Bullock Workman and her husband, Dr. W.H. Workman, of Massachusetts, traveled and explored in the Himalayas between the 1890 and 1915. They wrote six books about their adventures.
- Fanny, an ardent suffragette, was once photographed on a high pass in the Himalayas carrying a newspaper bearing the headline "Votes for Wom

Another early woman and climber and rival of Mrs. Workman Was Annie S. Peck New England professor. She began her climbing career with an ascent of the Matterhorn when she was 45, In1908, at the age of 58, she made the first ascent of Huascaran, the highest mountain in Peru. At 21.837 feet, she claimed it was the altitude record for any American. Peck described herself as a "firm believer in the equality of the sexes ...[A]ny great achievement in any line of endeavor would be an advantage to my sex ")Annie S. Peck, High Mountain climbing in Pure and Bolivia, 1912.)".

In the years since World War II, have made numerous significant climbs in the Andes and the Himalayas. One of the most remarkable of them was the late French climber Claude Kogan. Britishwomen have also been successful climbers from the 1950s, onward, they have carried out manysmall, well-organized expeditions to previously unexplored regions of the Himalayas and written about them in an understated, characteristically British fashion. In addition to the British and other small expeditions, woman climbers throughout the world have made significant contributions to, climbing in the last 100 years. However until quite recently, women have been notably absent on theworld's highest mountains.

There are 14 mountain in the world that soar above 8,000 meters (26,200feet) --- all located in the Himalayas. For many years, mountaineers have wanted to figure out a way to reach their summits. Attempts to climb them began in the nineteenth century; in the first half ofthe twentieth century, hundreds of men participated in dozens of expeditions to theses peaks. But even after Fanny Workman's example, only a handful of women participated in such climbs.

Elizabeth Knowlton was a member of the joint German-

American climb to Nange Parbat in 1932. In 1934 Hettie

Dyhrenfurth took part in an expedition that explored and mapped the Baltoro Glacierregion of the Karakoram Himalaya; she reached the top of Queen Mary Peak (24,370 feet.(which gave her the world altitude record for women for which Annie Peck and Fanny Workman had competed.

F It was not until 1950 that an 8,000- meter peak was climbed by anyone. The legendary ascent of Annapurna I by Maurice Herzog's French team was closely followed by successes on all 8,000- meter giants over the next 14 years—and all by men. During this period the only attempt on an 8,000-meter peak by a women's team was the ill-fated 1959 international women's Expedition to Cho Oyu in Nepal. Tragically, four climbers, including the leader, Claude Kogan, died in this attempt. By 1972, when the idea our all-woman expedition to Annapurna was originally conceived, no women from any country had yet reached the summit of an 8,000- meter pea.

Thesis Statement and Supporting Ideas:

تنظيم وتطوير افكارك 🖶

- Review Points استعراض النقاط
- An essay is composed of three or more paragraphs and communicates an attitude or opinion about an issue .
- The thesis statement tells the reader the main idea of the essay .
- The reader should be able to predict what the essay is about by reading the thesis statement .
 - The thesis statement usually appears in the introductory paragraph.
 - New Points نقاط جدیده
 - The thesis statement usually contains two parts: the topic and the approach to the topic.
 - The topic presents the general subject of the essay.
 - The approach presents the writer's attitude or opinion about the topic and indicates how the writer will develop the essay.

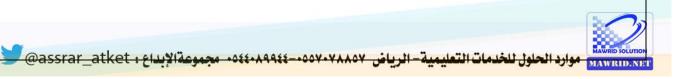

Studying an example of a thesis statement

read the following thesis statement

Sydney Possuelo is a great explorer because he has not only made significant contributions to our knowledge of the Amazon but has also worked todefend the rights of the indigenous people of Brazil

In this thesis statement, the topic is Sydney Possuelo. The writer's approach is to show why Possuelo is a great explorer. From this thesis statement, the reader can predict that the writer will explain that Possuelo has increased our knowledge of the Amazon while also defending the rights of the indigenous (native) people who live in that region.

- ♣ Analyzing Thesis Statements For the thesis statements that follow, underline the topic and put a dashed line under the approach.
- 1. Many explorers have the urge to explore due to their own curiosity and a desire to make a contribution to the world.
- 2. The adventures of medieval travelers such as Marco Polo and Ibn Battuta led to cross-cultural exchange and expanded international trade.
- 3. Alexander the Great was one of the ancient world's greatest explorers because he solved manmysteries about the earth's geography and weather.

Supporting ideas :

- New points:
 - ✓ The approach may include two or more supporting ideas about the topic.
 - ✓ The writer will generally develop these ideas in separate paragraphs.
 - ✓ Each supporting idea should have the same degree of generality or specificity.
 - ✓ Each supporting idea should have the same degree of importance in relation to the topic.
 - ✓ Each supporting idea should be distinct.

ANALYZING SUPPORTING IDEAS

In the thesis statement about Sydney Possuelo on page 13, the supporting ideas are (1) he has made significant contributions to our knowledge of the Amazon, and (2) he has worked to defend the rights of the indigenous people of Brazil.

Note the following :

- ✓ Making contributions and defending rights are equally general topics;
- ✓ one isn't more specific than the other .
- ✓ Both have the same degree of importance in relation to why Possuelo is
- ✓ a great explorer .
- √ They don't overlap; making contributions is different from defending.
- √ indigenous people's rights. They can each be discussed in their own parts of the essay.

Identifying Topic and supporting Ideas Read each of the following thesis statements. Underline the topic and put a dashed line under the supporting ideas. If the thesis statement is good, circle good. If it is not good, circle needs work and rewrite it according to what you learned in this section.

 The Brazilian explorer Sydney Possuelo risked his life when he tried to protect the Korubo Indians of the Amazon.

Gender Differences in Communication

A All of us have different styles of communicating with other people. Our style depends on a lot of things: where we're from, how and where we were raised, our educational background, and our age. It also can depend on our gender. Generally speaking, men and women talk differently, although there are varying degrees of masculine and feminine speech characteristics in each of us. But women do speak in very particular ways that are associated with gender.

Some researchers describe the styles that men and women use To Communicate as "debate vs. relate," "report vs. rapport," or "competitive vs. cooperative" (with the first term in each pair describing men). In other words, men often seek direct solutions to problems and usefuladvice, whereas women tend to try to establish intimacy by discussing problems and showing concern and pathy.

- In her book Women, Men and Language (New York: Longman Inc., 1986), Jennifer Coates studied men-only and women-only discussion groups. She found that when women talk to each other, they reveal a lot about their private lives. They also stick to one topic for a long time, let all speakers finish their sentences, and try to have everyone participate. Men, on the other hand, rarely talk about their personal relationships and feelings, but "compete to prove themselves better informed about current affairs, travel, and sports." They change topics often and try to dominate the conversation
- Dr. Lillian Glass's book He Says, She Says: Closing the Communication Gap Between the Sexes (The Putnam Berkeley Group) presents her findings on the many differences in the way men and women communicate, both verbally and nonverbally. For example, she found among other things that men speak more loudly than women do, that they interrupt more often than women do, andthat they use fewer intensifiers ("really," "much," "quite") than women. She also found that while men make more declarative statements, women make statements sound like questions by using tags and question intonation ("It's a nice day, isn't it?") at the end of statements
- What about online communication? Can one determine another person's gender just by reading their written words? Susan Herring thinks so. In a 1994 talk at a panel called "Making the Net Work," she said that men and women have recognizably different styles on the Internet. Her research showed that on Internet discussion boards, men tended to be more assertive than women. Women, in contrast, tended to hedge (be unsure), apologize, and ask questions. Men also appeared to enjoy, or at least tolerate, "flaming" (insulting others online), whereas women disliked and avoided it

Woman usually reveal a lot a bout their personal lives while man rarely discuss personal relationship and feelings

- 3. Women usually let speakers finish their sentences. Men tend to interrupt.
- 4. Men tend to be assertive in online communication. Women tend to hedge.
- 5. Men usually make declarative statements. Women often add question tags to the end of statements .

Studying a well-Developed Paragraph

Read the following well-developed paragraph and notice how the author anticipates and answers the readers' questions (in italics)

One way in which men's and women's speech differs is in the practice of interrupting. (How?) Studies have shown that men interrupt women much more often than they do other men, while women are less likely to interrupt either men or women. (Prove it!) At business meetings, for example, men typically engage in "competitive turn-taking," or grabbing the floor by interrupting another speaker. (How are women different?) Women, however, have been conditioned from childhood to believe that interrupting is impolite. (Explain further, please.) Instead, they sit for hours waiting for a turn to speak, while their male colleagues wonder if they'll ever have anything to say. (What does this mean?) This not only demonstrates a gender difference in speaking, it also illustrates one of the reasons that men and women do not understand each other.

How did the writer answer each of the readers' questions (shown in italics)? Find the details, examples, and explanations that answer each of the questions .

Analyzing a paragraph

Read the following paragraph. It is poorly developed because the writer did not anticipate the readers' questions and answer them. Try to answer the readers' questions (in italics) yourself, and then, on a separate piece of paper, rewrite the paragraph, developing it more fully.

One way to learn a foreign language is to watch the nonverbal communication of native speakers. (Why?) Watch how people behave when they talk to each other. (Why?) Observe the gestures they use and try to figure out what they mean. (Give an example.) You can learn many things about people just by watching their behavior as they speak. (Why? What does this have to do with everything else you've said?)

Improving a paragraph

The writer of the following paragraph did not anticipate possible questions the reader might have. Read the paragraph, then list the questions that a reader might ask after each sentence. Then rewrite the paragraph on a separate piece of paper. As you rewrite, improve it by answering the questions that you listed .

There are three areas of difference between men and women's communication styles. (Question #1) One area is using language to dominate, versus using it to establish rapport. (Question #2) Another area is in the use of declarative statements versus questions. (Question #3) Using and tolerating insults reflects another area of difference. (Question #4)

Beauty and Aesthetics

Focus:

This chapter will focus on cause and effect. You will learn to write about personal aesthetics such as clothing, body paint, body piercing, tattoos ...etc.

Think about more examples.

- Why do people change their natural appearance?
- To enhance beauty
- To hide flaws
- To indicate one's place in a group or in society
- To indicate certain age (child or adult)
- To indicate wealth
- To disguise oneself or to become someone else
- To protect oneself from the environment

• The Reading Passage:

We will read this passage together, and try to explain some of the ideas presented in it. Try to follow, and then try to read it on your own.

Tattoos Across Time and Place

- "It's a permanent reminder of a temporary feeling," sings Jinuny Buffett about some parents' dismay over their daughter's tattoo. Yet those indelible body markings are more than a trend embraced by merchant marines, bikers, and goths in basic black. Tattoos arise from a rich cultural history dating back 5,000 years.
- The earliest example of tattoos so far discovered was found in 1991on the frozen remains of the Copper Age "Iceman" scientists have named Otzi. His lower back, ankles, knees and foot were marked with a series of small lines, made by rubbing powdered charcoal into vertical cuts. X-rays revealed bone degeneration at the site of each tattoo, leading researcher s to believe that Otzi'speople, ancestors of contemporary central and n orthern Europeans, may have used tattoos as medical treatment to reduce pain.

- As civilizations developed, tattoos took on other meanings. Egyptian funerary figures of female dancers from around 2000 BCE, display the same abstract dot-and-dash tattoos on their bodies as those found on female mummies from the same time period. Later images represent Bes, god of fertility and revelry.
- Ancient Romans found reason to celebrate tattoos, believing in the purity of the humane from. Except as brands for criminals and the condemned, tattoos changed. Fighting an army of Britons who wore their tattoos as badges of honor, some Romans came to admire their enemies' ferocity as well as the symbols they wore. Soon Roman soldiers were wearing their own body marks; Roman doctors even perfected the art of application and removal.
- During the Crusades of the eleventh and twelfth centuries, warriors identified themselves with the mark of the Jerusalem cross so that they could be given a proper Christian burial if they died in battle. After the crusades, tattooing largely disappeared in the West for a time, but continued to flourish in other places.
- By the early eighteenth century, European sailors encountered the inhabitants of the South and Central Pacific Islands. There, tattoo were an important part of the culture. When in mourning, Hawaiians tattooed their tongues with three dots. In Borneo, natives tattooed an eye on the palm of their hands as a spiritual guide that would lead them to the nest life.
- In 1769, Captain James Cook landed in Tahiti, where the word "tattoo" originated from tatau, which means "to tap the mark into the body." One method island practitioners used for working their designs into the skin was with a razor-edged shell attached to the end of a stick. In New Zealand, Maori leaders signed treaties by drawing precise replicas of their moko, or personal facial tattoo. Such designs are still used to identify the wearer as a member of a certain family and to symbolize a person's achievements in life.
- Tattooing has been practiced in Japan--for beautification, magic, and to mark criminals--since around the fifth century BC. Repressive laws gave rise to the exquisite Japanese designs known today. Restricted from wearing the ornate kimonos adorned royalty and the elite, outraged merchants and the lower classes rebelled by wearing tattooed body suits. Covering their torsos with illustrations that began at the neck and extended to the elbow and above the knee, wearers hid the intricate designs beneath their clothing. Viewing the practice as subversive, the government outlawed tattoos in 1870 as it entered a new era of international relationship. As a result, tattooists went underground, where the art flourished as an expression of the wearer's inner longings and impulses.
- The yakuza, the Japanese gangster class, embraced the body suits— even more so because they were illegal. Their elaborate designs usually represented an unresolved conflict and also included symbols of character traits the wearer wanted to emulate. A carp represented strength and perseverance. A lion stood for courage, such tattoos required long periods of pain caused by the artist's bundled of needles, endured by wearers as a show of allegiance to their beliefs. Today, Japanese tattoo wearers are devoted to the most colorful, complete, and exotic expression of the art.

- New York inventor Samuel O'Reilly patented the first electric tattoo machine in 1891, to making traditional tools a thing of the past in the West. By the end of the 1920s, American circuses employed more than 300 people with full-body tattoos who could earn an unprecedented $ 200 per week.
- For the next 50 years, tattoos gained a reputation as a mark of American fringe cultures, sailors, and World War II veterans. But today, tattoo connoisseurs take the spotlight at international fairs and conventions with Japanese body suits, Celtic symbols, black tribal motifs, and portraits of favorite celebrities.
- "Tattooing is enjoying a big renaissance around the world," says Chuck Eldridge of the Tattoo archive in Berkeley, California, "Native American women in the Northwest are wearing chin tattoos again, reviving a cultural practice from centuries before the white man arrived. And, in answer to health concerns, artists in the South Pacific are slowly changing to modern equipment."
- "The melting pot that is the United States has no rites of passage as a single American culture," says Ken Brown, a tattoo artist in Fredericksburg, Virginia. "On some levels, getting a tattoo is like a milestone that marks a certain moment in a person's life." Ken still remembers one customer, an 80-year-old former marine who had always wanted a tattoo but had been too afraid to get one. "He came to me for his first tattoo," Ken says, "and he told me. 'I figure I got five or six years left in me, and I'm not going out without one."

-Cassandra Franklin-Barbajosa, "Tattoo: Pigments of Imagination."

Supporting Material:

We will consider the example on this page as an example of supporting ideas in a paragraph.

Some aspects of contemporary men's fashion can be traced to ancient times. The necktie is just one example. [Example] In fact, the history of neckties dates back to the Roman Empire. Roman legionnaires wore a focale, a piece of cloth around their neck in order to keep warm. In the seventeenth century, a regiment from Croatia (then part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire) visited Paris and was presented to the king, Louis XIV. The officers of this regiment were wearing brightly colored handkerchiefs made of silk around their necks. [Anecdote] Louis XIV, well known for his interest in personal adornment, admired these neck cloths. He made them fashionable in France and even established a royal tie maker. The origins of this early version of the necktie remain in the French word for tie, cravate, which is derived from the word "Croat." [Fact] In twentieth century America, Jesse Langsdorf patented the long, pointed tie still popular today. And in spite of the trend toward casual business dress, necktie sales in the twenty-first century are booming, with some manufacturers reporting a 50 percent increase in sales in 2003 over the previous year. [Statistic]
