Some people say, "Everybody is going to shop online and there will be no more real shopping malls." Other people have a different point of view. They say, "there will still be shopping malls but many people will use their computers. They will want to go out to stores for shopping and socialize. Shopping in stores will be easy. People will not need to go from store to store; they will only choose products. The stores will deliver their purchases to their houses and people won't need to carry them with them. An eye scan will identify their eyes. They won't only have big stores and many small stores. Malls will still be places for shopping. But in malls of the future, busy people will also go to the doctor, the post office. They will go to gym, too. Everybody agrees about one thing: things will be different in the future.

The American Revolution

The first battle of the American Revolution occurred at Lexington, Massachusetts in 1775. The American colonists were angry about numerous taxes issued by the British king. In 1776, the colonists issued the Declaration of Independence, a document written by Thomas Jefferson that outlined America's intention to become a new country separate from England. England wanted to maintain control of America, and vowed to fight the colonists. The war lasted eight long years. The Americans won many important battles such as those at Saratoga, Washington and Yorktown. Many American heroes emerged such as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin. Finally, in 1781, the British surrendered at Yorktown, Virginia and a new nation was born two years later.
