

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

Are big cities wonderful places? Are they terrible? There are different ideas about this. William H. Whyte writes books about cities. He is happy in a crowded city. He loves busy streets with many stores and many people. He likes the life in city parks and restaurants. Many people don't like big cities. They see the large population of cities and they are afraid. Many cities are growing very fast. They are "monster" cities. (A monster is a big, terrible thing). In some countries, there are no jobs in small towns. People go to cities to work. For example, 300,000 people go to Sao Paulo, Brazil, every year. In china, about 183,000 people move to Beijing from the countryside every year. Sao Paulo and Beijing are both megacities. A megacity is a very, very big city. It includes the main city and cities and towns around it. People density is the number if people in one square mile (2.59 square kilometers). There are big problems in megacities. In many U.S cities there are many people with no jobs and no homes; the air is dirty. A terrible problem is crime. Many people are afraid of crime. People want to feel safe.

Read the following passage and answer the questions 11-20

1 These are pictures of family, I took the pictures last summer. We don't live together. We live in different cities, different states. and two countries. But We often talk to each other on the phone or send email. Every summer all the relatives come together for a week. This is our family reunion. and it's so much fun.

2 There are two branches in our family one branch Mexico and one from the United States. People come to the reunion from California. Arizona. New York and Florida. Other people come from Mexico City and Puerto Vallarta. My great-grandparents live in Puerto Vallarta, and my grandparents now live in Arizona.

3 At the reunion. we have a picnic one day. We play baseball, swim, and eat a lot. We play volleyball, too. One day some of us go shopping. One night we always have a big barbeque. We sit around a fire, tell stories, and eat a lot. Some of my aunts and uncles sing. On the last night, we have a dinner party at a nice hotel. Our family really likes to eat.

4 We don't only eat. We visit with each other all week. We talk about problems. We plan weddings. Sometimes we argue. All bring their new babies, new wives and husbands. It's good to have a big family. But at the end of the week, I'm always very tired. I'm happy to be alone
